Kia ora tatou

As promised, a brief update today.

We have had one new case in the last 24 hours: a Year 9 student who was already self-isolating as a household contact and who has not been in school since last week. She was therefore not infectious in school at any point.

This morning, we tested a number of returning students, and all tests were negative.

We'll have the last update of the term tomorrow. In the meantime, have a good evening and I look forward to seeing you tomorrow for the very last day of term!

Ngā mihi
