

ITINERANT MUSIC LESSONS AT PINEHURST SCHOOL

Pinehurst offers every student from Year 0 to Year 13, the opportunity to learn a musical instrument through our Itinerant Music Programme. Studies show that learning to play a musical instrument improves the neurological pathways in the brain, resulting in greater concentration and self-discipline, and increased academic success and social skills. In short, learning a musical instrument at Pinehurst is an enhancing experience.

Our itinerant music lessons take place during the school day, on the same day and at the same time each week. Lessons are 30 minutes long and will often occur during other subject class times, such as English or Mathematics. The lesson timetable will change each term so that students will not be missing the same subject class for the whole year.

When you register your child, you are registering for the whole year, while the itinerant music teacher will invoice you for payment one term at a time. This means you only need to complete the registration process once, but you will be making four payments, one per term, for lesson fees.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

Lesson Attendance

- Students are required to attend their lesson every week and arrive on time.
- If students cannot attend their lesson (or need to arrange an alternative time) they must contact their itinerant teacher at least two days before their scheduled lesson to make new arrangements.
- Up to two lessons per term may be credited or rescheduled if adequate notice is given to the teacher. With the volume of students, it is not practical to arrange alternative times or provide catch-up lessons more often than this.
- If students miss more than three lessons a term without a justified reason, their lesson spot may be given to another student on the waiting list.
- If students wish to cease lessons, they must give their itinerant teacher three weeks' notice of their intention to stop lessons.
- Students, particularly senior students, are expected to catch up on any work they miss in their subject class while at their music lesson.

Practice Expectations

- Students must practise regularly, and ideally, daily. They should discuss a suitable practice routine with their itinerant teacher, which will depend on the age and level of the student.
- While we suggest that parents supervise younger students to foster daily practice, all students will benefit from parental encouragement and support.

- Itinerant teachers may contact parents with feedback and ask for support, if it is apparent that students are lacking in their practice routine.

Lesson Fees and Payment

- Lessons are charged at $38 per 30-minute lesson.
- Lessons are invoiced by the itinerant teacher, one term at a time, at the beginning of each term. Payment must be made by the end of Week 2 each term. If payment is delayed, a 10% late payment fee may be charged.
- If a student forgets or fails to come to a lesson without contacting their itinerant teacher in advance, they will be charged for that lesson.
- Itinerant teachers may, from time to time, request that you purchase books and other materials needed for the lessons.

Instruments and Storage

- Pinehurst does not operate an instrument hire scheme. We recommend KBB, MusicWorks and the Auckland Band Instrument Company for their reasonable hire options.
- Before purchasing an instrument, we suggest asking your child's itinerant teacher for recommendations.
- Students should bring their own (or hired) instrument to their lessons, except in the case of piano, drums, and sometimes guitar lessons. The itinerant teacher will advise on what equipment the school is able to provide e.g. amplifiers.
- Instruments should be clearly labelled with the student's name and may be stored during the day, in the department's instrument storage facility in College 2.

Pinehurst's Itinerant Teachers

Trudy Lile – Piano, Flute and Vocal

Trudy is a bit of a jack of all trades and certainly a master of them all. She is not only a talented piano teacher but she is also an accomplished flute and vocal performer who has been teaching at Pinehurst for a number of years.

She is a flutist and vocalist based in Auckland, New Zealand. She has performed at Jazz and Arts Festivals around the country with her band, Mojave, as one of The Jazz Divas, and as a Sister of Swing. She has recorded and performed with The Rodger Fox Big Band, Black Sand Diva, Whirimako Black, Ishtar, King Kapsi, Many Hands, and on the sound track of the 2013 New Zealand film, Mt Zion. She has also toured internationally to Australia, Singapore and Korea.

Trudy completed a BMus in Classical performance at Victoria University in 1991, studying with Dr Alexa Still. She then took up the position on Associate Principal Flute with Christchurch Symphony Orchestra. She became the first jazz flutist in New Zealand to complete her Masters of Music in jazz performance. She has released two albums, Ristretto and Well Dressed Standards, both of which are available on iTunes, Amplifier, CD Baby and Bandcamp. Both of these releases combine Jazz standards with Latin and other influences.

Christine Mori – Flute and Chamber Music

Christine won a scholarship to study at the Sydney Conservatorium of Music (now part of Sydney University) and graduated with a Degree in Music Performance. She then joined the Australian Broadcasting National Training Orchestra on a scholarship for two years.

Ms Mori worked in Sydney as a freelance musician, mainly with the Australian Opera and Ballet Orchestra, but also in private practice, teaching at Newington College and Sydney Boys' High School. She then taught at the Canberra School of Music before taking up a similar position at the Sydney Conservatorium.

On returning to New Zealand, Ms Mori took up the position of Principal Flute with the Auckland Philharmonic Orchestra, a position she held for 20 years, appearing as a soloist, tutoring at the Orchestra's summer music school and the NZ Secondary Schools' Orchestra, and acting as a mentor for secondary school students.

Ms Mori was a member of the Auckland Wind Quintet and taught at the Auckland School of Education. She was also a member of the Bach Musica Orchestra for 10 years.

Mary Lewis – Drums and Percussion

Mary studied music at the University of Stellenbosch in South Africa, where she completed a master's in music (Ethnomusicology). Her performing instrument was percussion, with flute and piano as secondary instruments. Mary particularly enjoyed playing in several award-winning Symphonic Wind Ensembles, both in South Africa and abroad. She has played in various festivals, productions and music tours in Southern Africa and the United Kingdom.

Mary started instrumental tutoring as an undergraduate and discovered she really enjoyed developing young musicians, teaching in the government development programme and at prestigious South African private schools. Since immigrating to New Zealand in 1999, Mary has taught orchestral and ethnic percussion, as well as rock and jazz drumming as part of private school itinerant programmes and privately at home.

Mary is currently participating in community ensembles and theatre productions.

Sam Swindells – Acoustic and Electric Guitar

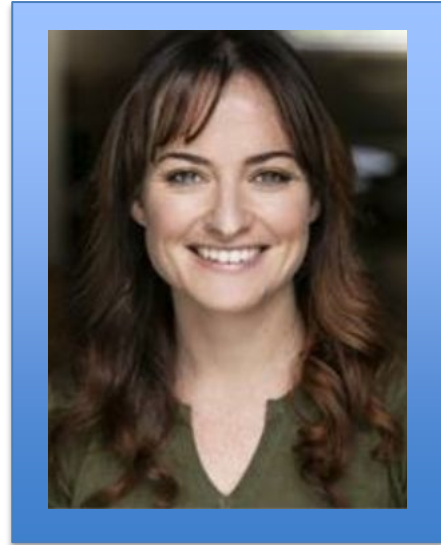

Sam has been on the Auckland music scene for around 6 years now and has been honing his skills as a performer and writer. He recently completed an Honors Degree at Auckland University focusing on jazz performance and is now a successful session musician and has been teaching itinerant guitar lesson at Pinehurst. His Honors recital created a buzz and that those who attended were impressed by it. One of the exciting things about the New Zealand Jazz scene is the growing strength of the writing and arranging. Sam is also a talented singer and mentors our senior Rock Bands.
